

A Dream
of
Apostle Arnetta Armour Salazar

Many Flood Waters

Artist: Shawn Warren © 2012

I saw water flowing from the West to the East. There were people, cars, houses, and business washed towards the East. The waters slammed the people. Properties were destroyed and screams of despair filled the air.

The water moved and flowed over a cliff or edge by hundreds of feet. We could hear the crash of the water as it moved. I was washed over this edge but, I believed God would hold me and keep me alive. I spoke safety as I prayed I was carried safely to level ground. There were some others there I knew and we hugged with tear filled eyes. It was a muddy mess but we survived as we watched others fall to their deaths.

Another flow of water moved through but we ended up in a cave. I saw former coworkers and we clung to one another for safety. We stepped out a bit to look down at all that had washed over the cliff. It was a sad scene but, we made it!

A Dream
of
Apostle Arnetta Armour Salazar

Many Flood Waters – 2011 Continued

Artist: Shawn Warren © 2012

MANIFESTATION: Philadelphia, PA 2011 - After this dream there were unleashed floods on the East coast as an Hurricane moved through. People and properties were destroyed; completely washed out.